SOMETHING NEW.

NEW CLARION RANGE,

FOR WOOD OR COAL.

With Glass Oven Door.

We are now manufacturing this splendid and very popular Cooking Range with a plate of glass French plate, 8 by 11 inches, inserted into the oven door. This improvement is valuable and can be best appreciated by housekeepers. All articles can be seen while in process of cooking or roasting without opening the oven door, thereby preventing numbers from escaping and all kinds of pastry and cake from falling, and insuring a perfect success in roasting meat and poultry. The glass is the best article for the purpose, withstanding intense heat, little to crack or storm can obstruct the view from the oven. The glass is in a frame, so that it can be taken out in the door, and can be removed without danger of breaking, or replaced with a common thermometer. Name Plate, which is furnished with each Range with Glass Door. Many of the features of these ranges are to be found in other ranges, but this combines the most economical and durable Range ever sold in this State. Please call and examine it before purchasing.

These Ranges are for sale in Bangor by the manufacturers and JOSEPH SEMPLE, in Brewer by BELLEN & SPARKS and by all first-class dealers throughout our State.

SONS OF MAINE.

The Meeting at Chicago.

A DELIGHTFUL RE-UNION.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean of June 17 contains a very full report of the re-union of the Society, Sons of Maine, and the following extracts are taken from its columns:

THE FIRST BANQUET.

The first banquet of the Society of the Sons of the State of Maine resident in Chicago, was given at the Palmer House, last night. It was the first time the sons of Maine adopted by Illinois had had a chance to get together with their ladies and friends, and it was to them an important event. It was not a gathering of Chicago people only, for a party of prominent people from the old Pine Tree State came by special car to take part in the festivities and celebrate the event. The parlors of the hotel were brilliant with bright and beautiful faces and with rich costumes, as the ladies promenaded. The gentlemen were in evening dress and the toilets of the ladies were very elaborate. John Hand's orchestra was stationed in the main corridor and discoursed sweet music at intervals.

At 9 o'clock the procession was formed, and marched to the large dining-room, where the banquet was spread. The tables were separate, and the guests were seated in groups, a member of the society taking charge of each party and looking after the welfare of his guests. All the tables were numbered, and each was decorated with a large basket of flowers. The table at which the President of the society, Judge Drummond, and the prominent invited guests sat, was upon a small platform at the east side of the room. At 10.30 o'clock the glasses clinked, and the toasts were ready. The address of welcome by Judge Drummond, President of the society, was the first on the programme, and he spoke as follows:

Judge Drummond's Welcome.

When we remember that forty-one years ago Illinois did not contain 300,000 inhabitants, and Chicago not 5,000, and that now this city has more than 500,000 and the State more than 3,000,000, we appreciate in some degree the immense numbers that have come hither from other States and countries and made their homes in this great State of the Northwest.

Maine has contributed her share to this prodigious increase in numbers, education, intelligence, industry, and worth.

Natives of Maine residents of Illinois have formed this "Society of the Sons of the State of Maine" to cultivate friendly relations with each other, and revive and perpetuate the memories of our early homes. We have felt that we ought not to forget the place of our birth, but that in some outward and visible manner we should prove our affection for our native land. When we think of the virtue and intelligence of its people, of the great names it has given to the country and departments of life, which we recall its unrivaled seacoast, with its countless bays and rivers, islands and harbors, highlands and islands, we feel proud of the State of Maine.

When we look upon the State of our adoption and think of its marvelous progress within the last forty years in all that contributes to the comfort and happiness of men, we feel proud of the State of Illinois. But we do not forget what the very fact of our birth and residence teaches, and what is our highest toast—that in Maine or Illinois, we are still the same citizens of a great free, common country, stretching from ocean to ocean, not limited by States lines, but one and indivisible, with more than fifty millions of people, where there is, as we believe, a wider field and grander opportunity to develop all of which the human race is capable than has ever been vouchsafed to any nation. We hope that we may prove true to the name, the place, and the occasion.

Ladies and gentlemen—our guests—some of whom have come more than one thousand miles to honor us with your presence, whether born in Maine, Illinois, or in any other State, whether on this continent or another, we bid you welcome to our hearts and to our cheer to-night.

"THE RIVERS OF MAINE."

The Chicago Quartet—Harry Thomas, J. F. Bird, C. A. Dow, and G. C. Eager—then sung "The Rivers of Maine," a song written for the occasion by Eugene Hall. The words were:

Oh bright Androscoggin, much blest Androscoggin,
Oh Canal Androscoggin we greet you so rare.
How often in childhood we played in the wildwood
Where on your fair bosom the moonbeams were dancing,
When eyes full of love were turned upward to yours,
When the wana tearers and toil was a pleasure
When hope was as sweet as the fragrant of flowers.

Oh Kennebec River, oh beautiful river,
Grand Kennebec River, now gain from our race,
Oh, pure crystal fountains, where cool, crystal waters
Recall the kind words of our happiest days.
As life's weary toil with brave hearts, we are wending,
Our locks are furrowed, our heads are be-frost,
Yet deep in our souls lovely memories are lurking
Of boyhood and home on your banks far away.

Oh rolling Penobscot, oh stately Penobscot,
Majestic Penobscot, grand river of Maine!
Sweet recollections and fond retrospection
Will follow your waters with deep devotion.
The friends we have found, the hearts that were nearest,
The forms and the faces, their smile and their glow,
Long ruled from sight in eternity's decree,
Like raindrops lost fall in the fathomless sea.

After listening to a poem read by Prof. Rodney Welch, a native of Monmouth, Kennebec County, the President then called upon all to fill their glasses and drink to the old mother State. It was the first toast—"The State of Maine"—and was responded to by the Hon. Hannibal Hamlin. As the statesman, who so long and ably represented that border State in the national councils rose to speak, a storm of applause swept over the room, drowning every other sound, and it was only subdued when he who produced it stretched forth his hand as though to command the waves to be still. In an moment all was still, and he spoke.

The Hon. Hannibal Hamlin.

He said: "Mr. President, I am not advised of the regulations by which this social meeting is regulated, but I think I have a right to infer that they are of the quasi military character, because everybody knows that in the military court the youngest officer is always called upon first to express his opinion. Besides that, there is that which does not quite belong to the judicial. There you have your commands and proceed by statutes, but here you come nearer to the law of the highwayman. You and the highwayman are similar. You both say stand and deliver. (Applause.) I am occupying that position of being the juvenile member of your native State, and behold I speak by command of your presiding officer.

We have traveled no one thousand miles from Maine to partake of your hospitality and your banquet. We have come to testify that we have not forgotten and will never forget the men who went from us in those early days. We regret that you should have selected wider and better fields in which to display your ability and energy. We regret that you went from among us, but we have the consolation that you have reflected honor upon the old State from which you came by being an honor to the State of your adoption.

THE GREAT WEST.

Need I not point to all the great States in the wide West? Need I point to this great State of Illinois to testify to this fact? By being a part of this, you have shed luster upon your native State, and have done it nobly. Another consolation we have is in that statement made by your Chairman, that you have not forgotten the old State. In honoring and loving the State of your adoption you have not forgotten that of your nativity. Another consolation we have is that you are still bound to the rock-bound coast of Maine, to our rocky hills, to our sloping hillsides, to the old school-houses where we have been taught to make men. You have remembered and you will remember that, and all the years will never sever it from you. You have found new homes and new ties, but you will never forget the old days, the old homes, and the old associations. Truly, we are in the far Northwest, but it matters not whether at home or in Illinois, whether at home or in distant lands, we may exercise a little just pride in our native State.

ILLUSTRIOUS SONS OF MAINE.

In the old colonial times but two men were knighted for gallant conduct. William Pepperell, who won fame at Louisburg, and Admiral Phipps, who won his knighthood on the ocean. There was another gallant man spoken of, Probel, the father of the navy, he who gave form and comeliness to it, who gave spirit and life to it, as Hamilton did to the finances. There was also Henry Knox, who had been born in that part of the State which afterward became Massachusetts, but he had the good sense to go back into Maine to die. What had not Maine done by her sons? In literature and art she had placed her sons at the head. Who should stand the peer of Henry W. Longfellow in poetry and song? Then there were Willis and Hillard, and a host of others who might be called his peers. In his own experience in the councils of the Nation, the speaker had at one time served with eight members who were from old Oxford County, Me., and there were something like thirty members of Congress who had gone out from that old State and were there to shed luster and honor upon Maine. The State had also furnished Governors for half the States of the Union. They had one to-day over that part of the State now known as Massachusetts, and another in Michigan; had furnished two or three Chief Magistrates for Minnesota, and two at least for Iowa, and one each for California and Oregon.

AND LOTS MORE LEFT.

He did not know how much more, but if there were any States that had not been supplied from the old State, he would say to them that there were plenty of good men left to fill the vacant places. There was another thing besides men in connection with the history of Maine. The wonderful power of steam and vapor had revolutionized the world. It was time that the people of the higher had populated the lower latitudes, and this had been done by this mighty power. It was true that in the last decade Maine had but little more than held her population. But commerce, manufacturing, and agriculture had been most highly developed in that old State. They were told that it was not an agricultural State, and it was true, but they could supply their home market. They had a commercial interest which gave the State the foremost place.

GREAT POSSIBILITIES.

If the water-power of Maine were utilized as that in Rhode Island, it would run mills enough to give employment to five millions of people. In the future the hum of the wheel and the music of the loom would give Maine a position as the great manufacturing State of the Union. This was written in the letters of the future which the speaker could see. It would then be a proud day for all her sons and daughters, whether they had remained at home or gone abroad. They would be proud that they had been members of that illustrious family. (Applause.)

The Hon. C. P. Kimball.

"The Men and Memories of Maine" was the next sentiment announced, and the Hon. Eben Bradbury, of Portland, was called upon to respond. The Hon. C. P. Kimball arose and said that gentleman had been compelled to retire on account of his position. A number of the guests requested Mr. Kimball to respond in his stead. Being thus importuned, he stepped to the front and said that one of the most stringent rules passed by the Committee of Arrangements was that no man should respond to a toast whose name was not upon the programme, and, this being the case, he felt loth to infringe upon the rule. He said his friend, Hannibal Hamlin, would remember the time when they both used to speak against each other, when they were candidates for Governor as well as for Congress. His friend had been a much more effective speaker that he himself had proved to be! But those days were past and gone, and they now entertained pleasant memories of their past strifes. The speaker said that when he came to Chicago he had discarded all matters of a political nature forever; had not even voted, and his present address was the first one he had delivered in public here.

THE SOCIETY ORGANIZED.

Upon his arrival here he had inquired if there was a society of the Sons of Maine in this city, and was informed that there was not. Soon after a few of them met in a room in the Leland Hotel, and proceeded to organize a society. There were so many great and good men from the State of Maine that it was very difficult to decide upon who should select as officers. The idea of organization six months ago the society had steadily grown. He remembered how proud they all were when the Hon. E. B. Washburne became a member. That gentleman had been one of the foremost members—being always on hand. Innumerable meetings had been held, and Mr. Washburne was always on hand. They had started four or five months ago to have this meeting and this banquet to the Sons of Maine, and he didn't believe any of them anticipated so great a success as they had had.

Referring again to his departure from "Old Maine," Mr. Kimball said that the farther he went from that State, he found his affections for the grand old State growing deeper and deeper. As he looked over the daily papers of this city and those of Portland, he noted one after another of his old friends passing away, and consequently those who yet remained became dearer and dearer to him.

PERSONAL REFERENCES.

He referred in a complimentary manner to many of the members present, stating at the same time that they all felt honored by the presence of the President of the society at the banquet, and was loudly applauded. He felt as though they could not do too much for the visitors who had traveled nearly 1,000 miles to spend a few days with them. He stated that carriages would leave the Palmer Houses at 11 o'clock this morning, to convey their guests to South Chicago, in order that they might view the magnificent boulevards.

In closing the speaker thanked them all for coming to Chicago to see them, and hoped that they would make their stay long and pleasant.

C. A. Boutelle, Esq.

"The Press" was the last toast given, and was eloquently responded to by Mr. C. A. Boutelle, editor of the Bangor Whig, Bangor, Me.

Mr. Boutelle said it seemed a little strange that the committee should have gone away down to Bangor to bring the editor of a small provincial paper out here to Chicago to talk about newspapers. If he had been requested to respond to such a toast in some inferior city, like New York, which was in the infancy of journalism, (laughter and applause), he might have understood it. But out here in Chicago, this great metropolis of the West, it seemed a little strange to those learned in the art, and believing that what they of Chicago didn't know about newspapers was hardly worth talking about, especially at a banquet like that, at 11 o'clock in the evening. They had always found—those who had visited this city, and they all had come with a pretty good opinion of themselves—that the next morning after their arrival they very likely read in the papers a great deal more about themselves than they themselves actually knew, and of their sisters, cousins, and aunts a very great deal more. (Laughter.) He understood that in this city, within the past twenty-five years, the growth of the press had been almost miraculous.

FEATS IN JOURNALISM.

A quarter of a century ago ten million papers would have covered the entire daily circulation of this country, to-day, it took 175,000 newspapers to supply the city of Chicago and its vicinity, and, giving the average of five readers to a paper, this city's teeming presses were furnishing intelligence every twenty-four hours to over eight hundred thousand or nearly one million of people; and more than that, it was a pride and a pleasure for him to know, from the reliable information of those who had the management, and issuing of these great journals, that the character of the population in this vicinity—though he would not claim that it was entirely due to the immigration from Maine, although in that presence, with due modesty, he might say that the character of the population in this part of the Union was impressed by their presence here—to repeat, he would say that he had heard that it took no ordinary type of journalism to satisfy the people of this section. The fact that to-day, in this city, less in size than some cities of the Union, they had the most voluminous, the most enterprising press in America; that more money was spent here for news, in proportion, than in any other part of the country, spoke well for the intelligence of the population which had built up here, on the banks of the lake, this magnificent emporium of commerce and wealth, and rebuilt it within the space of a few years after the great conflagration had laid it in ashes, with great palaces like that in which they were, and with a marvelous rapidity that even Aladdin's genii would have stood aghast at.

THE PRESS.

He felt, indeed, that for him to be called upon to speak in regard to the press was a good deal like bringing coals to Newcastle in a very small load, so he would confine himself to a few references to the sphere and duties of that grand profession, of which he was proud to be even a very humble member. A great many people were in the habit of reviling the newspapers. A great many people said in fact, "You cannot believe that; it is in the newspapers," but let those same people be watched, and fifteen minutes would not elapse before they would get into some dispute as to policy, or art, or science, and they would go off and say they would leave the question to the newspaper to decide. The papers were what the people made them. They followed the old saying that the fountain never rose above its source. It would be found that where intelligence was the rule journalism had reached a degree of ability and excellence hitherto unknown. The newspapers of the country had been the guardians of the liberty of the people. During its most crucial period, when the very life of the Nation hung in the balance, the press had been the shield and bulwark of the people.

PATRIOTIC JOURNALS.

When our armies had struggled under the blows of the enemy it was the loyal press of the loyal North that had kept up the courage of the people, and sent cheer to those struggling in the front. It was the province of the press to keep alive the hearts and memories of the people—and to cushion them there—the heroic efforts and achievements of those who went forth to the battlefield. It was the privilege and the duty of the American press to keep alive in the hearts of the people the recollection of the great sacrifices of our brothers and comrades, which enabled them to meet that night—to meet as common citizens under one common flag.

The speaker then delivered an eloquent eulogy on those who fought the battles of the Union and preserved it intact, introducing during the course of this remarks the noble poem of Willie Winter.

The speaker then concluded by saying that he knew they would pardon his allusions to the past, for the sake of the duty that they all owed to those who had fallen in the past, and from whose graves the tender ties of sympathy led into every household. In conclusion he would say that those who came from Maine to enjoy this more than princely hospitality, fully appreciated this magnificent entertainment. They recalled the warm-hearted hospitality with which the sons of Maine, aye! and her daughters, too, in this city, had welcomed those who had come from the old homestead to see how the enterprising sons and daughters were living, they could never forget.

The Close.

The President of the feast then said that telegrams had been received from Blaine and other prominent sons of Maine regretting their inability to be present, but owing to the intensity of the hour their reading would be omitted.

The banquet was then closed with the playing of "Happy Through Life" by the orchestra.

SENATORIAL COURTESY

(From the Providence Press)

How repugnant to the genius of republican institutions, as understood by the men who framed our government, is the modern idea of 'senatorial courtesy,' or, indeed, of any interference by senators in the matter of appointments to office, has been proven by several incidents that have recently been dug out of the musty records and notably in a letter, published in the New York Tribune last week from the pen of the Hon John Jay. This letter has called forth from another reader of the same journal a communication in which is cited a correspondence still more important than any previously cited for the light which it throws upon the question.

In 1801 it was rumored that President Washington contemplated appointing Alexander Hamilton to be minister to England. Mr Monroe who was then a leader of his party in the Senate was opposed to this appointment, and wrote to the President asking that he be granted a personal interview in regard to the matter. George Washington with a wisdom and foresight that is wonderful, saw instantly the danger of establishing such a precedent, but before replying to Mr Monroe's request submitted his letter to Edmund Randolph his Secretary of State, for an official opinion as to his duty in the premises. Mr Randolph wrote a long reply, from which the following extract is taken:

'If I were to examine the question upon abstract principles I should say that no man of weight to recommend or oppose a candidate by any representation except of fact made before and to the President for he will have his vote upon the nomination and to recommend is to promise to support and to oppose is a declaration to thwart the nomination neither of which is exempt from indecorum.'

But Mr Randolph allowed his judgement to be overruled 'for the sake of harmony,' and lest a refusal to grant the interview asked for should furnish food for clamor' advised the President to inform Senator Monroe that it is presumed that he has considered and made up his mind as to the kind of interference which a Senator ought to make to a nomination beforehand, that upon this idea the President will be ready to afford an interview in a given time. Nevertheless Washington's career slighted than his Secretary State, refused to grant the interview and on the 9th of April 1791 wrote as follows to Monroe:

'If you are possessed of any facts or information which would disqualify Col Hamilton for the mission to which you refer I request that you would be so obliging as to communicate them to me in writing. * * * As I alone am responsible for the nomination is extremely behoovers me to run to such a one as in my judgment combines the requisites for a mission so peculiarly interesting to the peace and happiness of this country.'

Here then are the respective duties of the President and Senators in regard to appointments clearly and forcibly set forth by the man whose opinions touching the principles which underlie our form of government are held and deserve to be respected and revered by all Americans of every party. He would not even allow a Senator to talk with him in regard to an appointment which he contemplated. And yet Senator Monroe did not feel called upon to resign or appeal to the Legislature of Virginia for vindication. In George Washington's judgment it was just a improper for a Senator, whose duty it would be to act in a judicial capacity upon an appointment to use his influence for or against a candidate in advance of his nomination, as it would have been for a Judge upon the bench to discuss in private with counsel in a case the merits of an opinion he was about to render, affecting it.

How far away from these fundamental principles have we drifted in these latter days! Imagine a Senator in this year of grace who is personal relations with the President were cordial writing to the President's permission to confer with him as to an important appointment! And imagine a President refusing to see a Senator on such business. Why Senators today not only claim the right to select the men whom the President shall appoint to office but if he does not act in accordance with their views or demands they openly step down from the judicial position in which they are placed by the Constitution of the United States and become partisans laboring and log rolling with their fellows to defeat appointments to which they have a personal object on!

If the outcome of the present occurrences in the field of national politics should be a return to the theory and practice of George Washington the fruit of it would indeed be well worth all that it would cost. The limit set by the first President upon senatorial interference ought to be followed by President Garfield. Let him say to Senators and Representatives 'If you are possessed of any facts or information which would disqualify the person whom I am about to appoint for the duties of the office I propose to have him fill I request that you would be so obliging as to communicate them to me in writing. If not, then I am alone responsible for the nomination, and it extremely behooves me to name such a one as in my judgment combines the requisites for the place.' Let the President post this rule on the White House door and live up to it, and he will deserve well of his countrymen and win a fame as enduring as that of the fathers of the Republic.

THE NEW YORK CONTROVERSY.

Conkling Men at Variance.

THE SITUATION AT ALBANY.

[Albany Special to N Y Tribune June 19.]

The Legislature was scantily represented in the Capital to-day, most of the members having departed for their homes yesterday. To-night they began to stream into the city again in order to attend the Joint Senatorial Convention which is to be held to-morrow. Owing to the absence of members there was less talk about Senatorial candidates than for several Sundays past. Ex Vice President Wheeler and Congressman Richard Crowley were the only candidates who remained over Sunday. They spent the day quietly, but were, nevertheless the subject of a good deal of political gossip. A large number of their supporters happened to have remained here, members from the western and northern parts of the State, whose homes are such a great distance from Albany as to forbid their making a visit to them. These men were hinting under their breath that the Senatorial contest would be ended by a compromise this week, and that the Senators elected would be Mr. Wheeler and Mr Crowley, representing the Administration and the Conkling wing of the party. Such gossip is of unsubstantial nature in view of the few members who have returned, but it corroborates a fact which has been noticeable for several days—namely, that some Conkling men are proposing a compromise in which Mr. Conkling is not mentioned. Up to a week ago Mr Conkling's selection was insisted upon or if Administration men declared that he must be ruled out before compromise negotiations could even be begun, there was a positive refusal to make such an agreement.

But even the followers of Mr Conkling at least grow tired of prolonging uselessly such a contest as the present one. There is no longer a repetition among them of their former favorite remark that they would remain here until the snow flies voting for Conkling. It is perhaps suspected by Mr Conkling that he cannot trust much longer to the loyalty of the men who have thus far blindly followed him. Hence his efforts to adjourn the Legislature, in the hope that some turn of fortune may restore to him the favor of members.

There was a significant incident in the Legislature on Saturday, showing the attitude of Mr. Conkling on the adjournment question. When a vote was taken on Mr Hurd's motion to lay on the table Mr Patterson's resolution for the adjournment of the Legislature to-morrow, Mr Armstrong of Oneida County asked to be excused from voting on the ground that he was paired with Mr Josh. He stated that if he could vote he would vote against laying the motion on the table. It is evident that he would have voted for the resolution, if he vote had come that way. Mr Armstrong is regarded as Mr Conkling's personal representative in the Legislature and has naturally voted for his chief steadily since the beginning of the Senatorial contest. If he had voted for the resolution he would have been the only Republican that did so. There were other Conkling men, however, who agreed with his views.

CONKLING MEN AT VARIANCE.

It is apparent that the Conkling men are divided into two factions on the subject of adjournment. The members of the faction who are opposing adjournment think that upon Mr. Conkling's and Mr. Platt's withdrawal they can elect as Senators men of their own faction. The candidates are Richard Crowley, Chief Judge Folger and Speaker Sharpe. It is apparent from the names of these candidates that what is known as the Arthur Wing is opposing adjournment.

The compromise committee already exist that of the Conkling men. It is known as an advisory committee. It was appointed several weeks ago and consists of five members. It is known that Senator Bradley and Assemblyman Hurd are two of its members. The rest are yet unknown. The Administration compromise committee was appointed on Wednesday. It contains a representative of every one of the Administration candidates. This committee has no power to take decisive action. It can merely report the result of its negotiations with the Conkling advisory committee to the Administration conferees. Several days ago it is felt that if the committee should make a unanimous report to the conferees it would be accepted without question.

Ex Vice President Wheeler will depart for his home at Malone to-morrow. He has the highly informed himself about the situation, and will be in constant communication with the Administration leaders to the end of the contest. Ex-Senators Conkling and Platt with Vice President Arthur, their friends state, will come to Albany by the Hudson River. Arrived to-morrow afternoon. It is announced that they are still candidates for re-election to the Senate.

SENATOR STRAHAN'S CHANCES.

The recent statement of Senator Strahan that an attempt was made to induce him to abandon his allegiance to ex Senator Conkling by the offer of the position of United States Marshal for the Southern District of New York, has aroused a good deal of interest in political circles. The Conkling men have declared with much warmth that it was a clear attempt on the part of the Administration to secure another vote by the offer of a lucrative position. John I Davenport, who knows more about the matter than anyone else, will appear before the legislative committee to-morrow and will then probably give all the details of the so-called attempted bribery. It is asserted by friends of the Administration that Senator Strahan did not repeat all of the conversation between himself and Mr Davenport when the offer of the position was made, and that had he done so, it would have put a different complexion on the occurrence.

George Bliss is understood to be conversant with most of the important details. A reporter of the Tribune called on him yesterday and asked him if he was willing to make public what he knew of the transaction. He replied that he saw no harm in telling the main points. The near approach of the adjournment of the United States Senate, he said, 'made the President anxious to fill the position in this state the nominations for which he had withdrawn. All had been selected with the exception of that of United States Marshal for this district. The President had decided that he would not select in the name of Louis F Payn, who then held the office. At the same time he is in New York office he expressed a wish that the nominee should be a friend and supporter of Vice President Arthur. Three names were submitted to him all friends of the Vice President. Senator Strahan's name was submitted by John I Davenport as that of a man fully qualified for that position. The President thought favorably of it and Mr Davenport at once came on to this city to see Senator Strahan whom he had telegraphed to meet him. The Senator thought the acceptance of the place would put him in an embarrassing position if that time and asked if it could not be left open for him until after the adjournment of the State Senate. He was told that this could not be done. It was necessary that the nomination should be made at once. Senator Strahan then declined the offer. The position had previously been offered to Mr. Knox and declined by him. He was again urged to accept it and finally consented. I do not think that the charge of bribery in this case is well founded.'

MAINE NEWS.

Sons of America.

PORTLAND, June 21.—The National Camp of the Patriotic Order of Sons of America opened its biennial session here to-day, National President John S. Reader, of Ohio, presiding. Twelve State camps are represented, sixty delegates being present, and others are expected to-night. The reports of officers showed the order to be in a prosperous condition. The following officers were elected: National President, J. H. McDonald; Vice President, G. W. Wheeler, Portland; Master of Ceremonies, H. B. Hendley, San Francisco; Secretary, H. J. Stager, Cincinnati; Assistant Treasurer, F. B. Wobbe, New York.

The Treasurer reported a balance of $[illegible] against $[illegible] last year. Two papers were read. The reports of committees and delegates were received and the Association adjourned until afternoon. Several gentlemen have taken this occasion to make a display of medical goods.

This evening an elegant gold badge was presented to J. A. Heath of California. A reception was tendered the National Camp by Martha Washington Circle this evening. To-morrow there will be a parade and excursions.

Medical Association.

The Maine Medical Association met here at eleven this morning with an average attendance. President Wm. W. Greene presided.

This afternoon Dr. Greene, President, delivered his address and this evening several papers were read.

The Quickest Run on Record.

PORTLAND, June 21.—The steamer Mt. Desert made the quickest time on record to Bar Harbor to-day, three hours and twenty-five minutes, including two intermediate landings.

French Catholics.

WATERVILLE, June 21.—The convention of catholic societies, composed of French Catholics in Maine, with numerous delegates from other New England States and the Canadas, assembled at the Town Hall this afternoon and organized by choosing the necessary officers. This evening the hall was packed to overflowing to listen to addresses in English to the citizens of Waterville, and replies thereto. The convention will continue four days, devoting much time to the discussion of the social and religious conditions of the French catholics, and the best methods for improving their condition. Waterville has a French population numbering 1500.

The Strike.

PORTLAND, June 21.—The Pepperell has not opened its gates to-day, but it is reported that Mr. Howe, the agent, says he will open them in the morning and give the strikers one more opportunity to return. The Laconia has been running about half of its looms to-day. The average monthly payment on the Pepperell is $10,000, on the Laconia $30,000, so that as the matter now stands there is likely to be a [illegible] in the money market here. The strikers are still determined and have made arrangements for a cheap fifteen mile excursion to Montreal and Quebec. This morning extensive placards and crape were hung about the counting room of the Pepperell Company, being the first improper conduct that has occurred during the strike.

The Arson Case.

PORTSMOUTH, June 21.—The suspicion having been strengthened that Mrs. Gilman, who was burned to death at Kittery Point June 21, was first robbed and then murdered, $700 were to-day offered by her brother for the arrest and conviction of the guilty parties.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Destroyed by Fire.

BOSTON, June 21.—A fire at Melrose this morning destroyed Jonathan Barrett's shoe-factory building, occupied as a currying shop by Lane & Furbush. The houses of Timothy Grey and Richard Paul were both damaged. Total loss heavy but not ascertained, insurance $10,500.

An address was made by Rev. Dr. Eaton, who welcomed the delegates. Mother Stewart, of Ohio, John B. Gough, Mrs. Thompson of Ohio, Prof. Potter, Geo. M. Jones, D. B. Chisholm of Canada, and Prof. Foster also spoke.

The convention then permanently organized with the following: President, Rev. Dr. A. J. Gordon, of Mass.; Vice President, J. L. Bailey, of Pennsylvania; Mrs. Eliza J. Thompson, of Ohio, Secretary.

Another Decision.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Judge Traux, this morning, rendered a decision in the case of Rufus Hatch against the Western Union and other telegraph companies. He dismisses the complaint and dissolves the injunction restraining the Western Union Company from issuing their scrip for an increase of $15,000,000 of capital stock. The action is similar to that against the same company by Wm. S. Williams.

PROVIDENCE, June 21.—A warrant was served yesterday on David Black, one of the publishers of the Telegram, for alleged criminal libel on W. R. Hallett, a lawyer. This morning the sheriff sought C. C. Corbett, the other publisher, and found he had transferred his interest to Black and left town. Two of Corbett's brothers are serving terms of imprisonment for libel.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Fatal Railroad Accident.

FREEPORT, June 21.—A freight train on the West Pennsylvania Railroad ran over a cow, near Buffalo Creek bridge, this evening, throwing the engine off the track on the bridge causing the structure to fall, and precipitating the engine and ten cars into the creek. The engineer, fireman and Major Snowden, of Freeport, a passenger, were killed.

THE SENATORIAL QUESTION.

Tuesday's Ballot.

The Bribery Investigation.

ALBANY, June 21.—In the Assembly bribery hearing this morning Rosendale, associate counsel of Bangs, said that Bangs was necessarily absent and requested a postponement of the hearing until Wednesday.

John I. Davenport said that he could not be here to-morrow but would be Thursday. He desired to read the evidence of Strahan and asked the committee to direct the stenographer to furnish a copy of it to him. This was done.

E. A. Malloy, of Olean, was then sworn. He said: "I had a conversation with Assemblyman Bradley at Olean June 4. I said he was a pretty fellow to vote for Conkling and Platt when all his constituents were opposed to their return. Bradley answered me 'Keep your shirt on for a few days and you will hear of something from Albany which will astonish you.'"

Mr. Skinner—"Did you keep it on?"

Malley—"Yes, but I would like to make a change now."

Cross examined by Rosendale—Question—"Which wing of the Republican party do you belong to?"

Malley—"To neither, thank God."

Mr. Scott—"Where did this conversation occur?"

Answer—"On the street at Olean."

Question—"Did he intimate what would cause the astonishment?"

Answer—"He did not."

An effort was made to examine Tillinghast but the committee decided to adjourn till Wednesday morning.

Discussion on Adjournment.

Potter offered a resolution that when the Joint Convention adjourns on Saturday next it be to Monday next at the Town Hall, at Saratoga.

Foster raised a point of order that the law requires the Convention to meet here. Husted raised a point of order that the place of meeting could not be changed except by concurrent resolution of both Houses of the Legislature.

Madden said that he hoped the business of this convention would be completed this week.

Spinola then took the floor and spoke at some length about the position occupied by the Democratic party on the Senatorial question. He said that if the Republican party expected to break its line they were mistaken.

The President decided Husted's point of order well taken, that the convention could not adjourn to any place inconvenient for the Legislature to reach daily without a concurrent resolution of the Legislature fixing upon such place.

WASHINGTON.

The Treasury Department.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Treasurer Gilfillan issued a circular to-day in which notice is given that on and after July 15 and until further notice, the privileges for the transportation of worn and mutilated U. S. notes received by the Treasury by express for redemption, in sums of $500 or multiples thereof and of United States notes returned therefor, will be paid by the Government. On remittances not sent in the above amounts, consisting of any part of notes for circulation or of other notes than United States notes, the entire charges at Government contract rates will be deducted.

Assistant Secretary Upton, of the Treasury Department, sails to-morrow from New York for London on business connected with the continuance of 5 per cent. bonds at the London agency. He will be absent six weeks.

An Unconfirmed Report.

A rumor was circulated this evening that Internal Revenue Commissioner Raum had resigned, but it has no official confirmation.

The Departments.

Attorney-General MacVeagh has gone to Philadelphia to be absent several days. Secretary Windom will leave for Long Branch to-morrow morning to confer with President Garfield. During his absence Judge French will be Acting Secretary. The duties of both assistant Secretaries will also be transacted by Assistant Secretary French for as much as Assistant Secretary Upton leaves for Europe to-morrow on department business in connection with the 5 per cent. stamped bonds.

The Star Route Frauds.

Judge Cox, in the criminal court, in delivering his charge to the Grand Jury to-day, referring to the alleged Star Route irregularities, said, their attention would probably be called to violation of the postal laws. John A. Walsh brought a suit to-day in the district Supreme Court against Thos. J. Brady to recover $28,052 for money alleged to have been loaned to Brady, when he was second Assistant Post Master General.

Court Martial.

Passed Assistant Paymaster Frank Plaskett is under arrest in this city, pending the organization of a court martial in his case which will be convened on Thursday next.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Medical Society.

CONCORD, June 21.—The annual meeting of the New Hampshire Medical Society began to-day, and will continue through the evening, and to-morrow forenoon. There is a large attendance of members and a number of visiting delegates present. President, Dr. G. P. Cone, delivered the annual address, after which a report on surgery was made by Dr. A. H. Crosby, of Concord, with special reports by J. R. Ham, M. D., of Dover, F. A. Billings, M. D., of Concord, and Dr. D. W. Jones, of Portsmouth. A large number of new members were elected.

LONG BRANCH.

President Garfield and Family.

NEW YORK, June 21.—The only visitors to President Garfield yesterday were Secretary Lincoln, Congressman Townsend, of Ohio, and Sam Ward.

Mrs. Garfield is so much improved that she took a short walk on the beach yesterday afternoon.

President Garfield is reported as saying yesterday in reference to the issue between Senator Strahan and John I. Davenport as to the marshalship of New York, "If any one has promised any office in New York or elsewhere it has been done without consultation with me and without my knowledge."

VIRGINIA.

A Republican State Convention to be Held in August.

RICHMOND, June 21.—Eighteen out of the twenty-seven members of the Republican State Central Committee met here to-day. Chairman Lewis, who was recently nominated Readjuster candidate for Lieutenant Governor, was declared no longer a member of the committee and Gen. Wickham was elected to succeed him as chairman. The committee decided to hold a convention at Staunton, Aug. 24th, for the nomination of candidates for State offices, and that none but the straight-out Republicans should vote for the delegates or be eligible for election as delegates. The basis of the representation of the convention is one delegate for every five hundred and fraction of five hundred Republican votes polled for President in '80. The committee adjourned to meet here on the 28th inst. The next meeting will probably be lively, as the Readjuster minority element will have occasion to express their dissatisfaction of the action by the majority to-day.

The Mahone Movement.

NEW MARKET, June 21.—A large representative delegation composed of white and colored Republicans of Virginia, will call upon President Garfield next Thursday in the interest of the Mahone Readjuster coalition. The delegation will embrace representatives from every congressional district in the State.

ILLINOIS.

President Garfield's Letter.

CHICAGO, June 21.—The morning News to-morrow vouches for the statement that one of the principal points made by President Garfield in the letter which he wrote to General Grant while the latter was in Mexico, was that when he appointed Robertson to the Collectorship of New York he supposed the appointment would be satisfactory to Conkling, Platt and Arthur. The News makes this statement on the word of a friend of Gen. Grant's to whom he read extracts of the letter.

Northwestern University.

Dr. Joseph Cummings, of Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., was this afternoon elected President of the Northwestern University at Evanston.

A Long Tramp.

Antoine Strackel, who won fourth money in the recent O'Leary pedestrian match here, started from Chicago this afternoon to walk to New York, 950 miles, in twenty days.

CONDENSED DESPATCHES.

Charleston, S. C., despatch says: The trial of J. B. C. Cash for killing A. M. Shannon in a duel begun at Darlington yesterday. The case was given to the jury last evening. The jury will probably be out all night.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Affairs at Marseilles.

ROME, June 21.—It is impossible to describe the indignation the Marseilles affair caused here. The Chamber of Deputies received with ironical comments the statements of the Minister of Foreign Affairs that the conduct of the Marseilles authorities and the Italian Consul had been perfectly correct, and that they had done their utmost to prevent the insult to the Italian escutcheon.

"WOMEN NEVER THINK."

If the crabbed old bachelor who uttered this sentiment could but witness the intense thought, deep study and thorough investigation of women in determining the best medicines to keep their families well, and would note their sagacity and wisdom in selecting Hop Bitters as the best, and demonstrating it by keeping their families in perpetual health, at a mere nominal expense, he would be forced to acknowledge that such sentiments are baseless and false.—Picayune.

WOMEN WHO SUFFER.

The greatest sufferers in the world are women; their delicate organization being peculiarly susceptible to derangement and disease. Among those who have been cured by Dr. David Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy" we will name Mrs. S. A. McIlwain, of Fergusonville, N. Y.; Mrs. John F. Brinkerhoff, Highland, N. Y., Mrs. Edward Meyers, of Rondout, N. Y. and many others. "Favorite Remedy" purifies the blood, invigorates the system, and fortifies it against the disease. All druggists have it. d&w2w jun10

"I DON'T WANT THAT STUFF."

Is what a lady of Boston said to her husband when he brought home some medicine to cure her of sick headache and neuralgia which had made her miserable for fourteen years. At the first attack thereafter, it was administered to her with such good results that she continued its use until cured, and was so enthusiastic in its praise, that she induced twenty-two of the best families in her circle to adopt it as their regular family medicine. That "stuff" is Hop Bitters.—Standard.

Twitchell, Esq., of Medway, was running a bateau down the West Branch, he was called ashore below the Fisk place by a stalwart lad, who stated that he wished to be united in marriage to the blooming lass that stood by his side. Time being pressing, Mr. Twitchell then and there performed the ceremony that made them man and wife. A heavy thunder shower immediately followed, but the happy couple were not disposed to believe in evil omens, and they went their way rejoicing, being cheered by the ringing cheers of twenty-five robust men who were in the vicinity. That place will hereafter be considered a sacred spot.

MARIANCOOK.—Nearly every passenger train now stops at the Mariaucoook station, and parties visit the resort, daily. On Saturday a Sunday School excursion of three carloads of people came down from Waterville. Saturday evening, a party of 150 young folks came over from Winthrop village, by steamer, and had a dance in the grand pavillion. A special train, on Sunday, brought an excursion of the Locomotive Brotherhood, consisting of about 400 locomotive engineers from the Grand Trunk, Maine Central, Eastern and other railroads. They had a grand dinner and a fine sail on the lake. Sometime in July, Custer Post, G. A. R. of this city, will have an excursion to Mariaucoook. A committee of the Post went over the ground, Saturday. On Wednesday next (to-day) if pleasant, the greatest musical demonstration ever made in Maine, will occur there.—Journal.

GARLAND ITEMS.—Our correspondent "O" writes: As Mr. N. G. Reed and wife, of Garland, were returning home from Dexter, Monday evening, where they had been to attend an Odd Fellows' meeting, their horse became frightened, overturned the carriage, throwing out the occupants, bruising and cutting them badly, but breaking no bones. They were brought home by a Mr. Jose, of Dexter. The horse cleared himself from the carriage and was found yesterday morning about four miles above Dexter, on the Dover road, uninjured. The buggy was not very badly damaged.—Samuel Skillins in raising a barn had a narrow escape yesterday from a serious accident. A piece of timber fell, just grazing his head, but doing no injury beyond bruising his face somewhat.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The afternoon service was opened by singing, after which the Rev. H. S. Whitman delivered an essay on "The World's Need of the Universalist Church." He dealt with his subject in an able manner, and closely held the attention of the audience. The congregation then joined in singing on page 116, hymn 114.

Next in order was an essay on "The Importance of Church Organization and the Observances of Church Ordinances," by Rev. C. P. Nash.

At 4 P. M. a business meeting was held. The President called for a report of the Executive Committee.

On motion, the visiting clergymen from places outside the State were given the privilege of the floor during the Convention.

The Secretary read the names of the parishes which have formerly come into fellowship with the Convention. This at the last meeting was ordered printed in the Gospel Banner. The report also contained a history of the action taken by the State Conventions for fifty years past. Ninety-eight parishes were reported,—a few active parishes not being in fellowship. The officers were then sworn to comply with the legal requirements by Judge Brett.

Appropriate remarks were then made by the President.

Rev. Mr. Preble moved that some member of the Convention be appointed to read an essay at the next Convention, giving the statistics of the actual condition of the Universalist parishes in this State, and the condition as compared with other churches, and that Bro. W. R. French be selected to do that work.

The Committee on Credentials reported.

The President moved that some time be devoted by Dr. Emerson to Church and denominational interests.

It was voted that the President be authorized to await on the Doctor and ask him to speak as above.

A vote was passed granting an opportunity to Rev. Mr. Kent, of Washington, D. C., to speak some time during the Convention.

Remarks were made by Revs. Messrs. Bettles, Howe, Preble, Nash and Seltz.

Upon the suggestion of Rev. Mr. Bettles, a committee of three was appointed to draft resolutions in favor of the temperance question. Bro. J. Howe, Rev. W. French and Rev. I. J. Meade were named as said Committee.

EVENING SESSION.

In the evening the Woman's Centenary Association held a Missionary meeting, the exercises opening at seven o'clock, with singing of the hymn, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," followed by devotional exercises by Rev. Miss A. G. Waltze; singing of hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee."

The Secretary then read his report, which was adopted.

Mrs. C. A. Quimby, Vice-President of the Association, delivered an interesting address after which she read a letter from Mrs. Abel C. Thomas.

A missionary hymn was then sung, followed by an instructive address by Mrs. M. A. Adams, President of the Association, giving a full account of the doings of the missions.

An original hymn by Mrs. M. A. Adams, was sung.

Mrs. C. A. Quimby nominated a committee of four ladies to go among the audience and take the names of those who desire to become members of the Society, after which she introduced the Rev. Mr. Kent, of Washington, D. C., who, while the committee convened, in a very enthusiastic manner, illustrated in a forcible and interesting speech, the importance of at once joining the Woman's Centenary Association.

Brief addresses followed by Mrs. ——— of Lewiston, and Rev. G. W. Perry, of Auburn.

The meeting closed by singing hymn No. 125.

The order of exercises for to-morrow is as follows: 5 and 8 A. M., Conference meetings; 9 A. M., Business meeting; 10 30 A. M., Occasional Sermon, by Rev. G. W. Perry; 2 P. M., Business meeting; 7 P. M., Missionary meeting.

The members of the above named committees are requested to meet in the Common Council Room this evening at half-past seven o'clock, sharp.

Efforts will be made to induce the military companies in Dexter, Dover, Oldtown and Hampden, to participate in the festivities of the day.

Low rates of fare will be secured over all the lines of railway centering here, and also on the various steamboats.

The fund subscribed by the citizens already amounts to $600, which added to the $500 appropriated by the City Government, amounts to $1100. This sum will doubtless be largely increased. There is is now every reason for believing that we are to have in this city a genuine old-fashioned celebration of the Fourth, and we hope to see our streets thronged with strangers. The gentlemen who are the leaders in the movement are as energetic as they are patriotic and the affair can but terminate successfully.

The Journal says: The Franklin Company has recently made several large sales. Lots on Lincoln street have been sold to Richard Leader for $1,000, and to Margaret Connor for $1,400. The large lot in the rear of St. Peter's church has been sold to Rev. P. Hevey for $7,000. The lot will front Pierce street extension, where a formidable ledge has been quased up by the stone crusher. An extensive and costly wall will have to be built, and when this is done and the lot is levelled, Father Hevey will have one of the most commanding building lots in the city's midst. A spacious and imposing parochial residence, in connection with the church, is destined for the lot, and will be built at a future day.

In Portland a number of people believed that the world would really come to an end Sunday. One man, who drives a bake cart, made all his preparations, and on Saturday, went about and bade all his friends adieu. He seemed very happy in his belief, and must have been sadly disappointed. A Jersey, who lives on Munjoy Hill, it was reported, who owned a small house and had a little property of his own, consisting of some $300, made a deed of the property to some friends, but held the deed over Sunday before having it registered so as to make sure that she would not need it any more.

At F. Sanborn & Co.'s Steep Falls, are manufacturing large quantities of corn boxes for the Portland Packing Company. They have a contract for between 65,000 and 100,000.

Franklin.

The increasing drouth is causing some apprehension among the farmers of Farmington. Uplands are looking yellow, and meadows and intervales are looking wilted and backward. Grain is apparently not suffering as yet; hoed crops are just at the stage when a few days will about decide their fate.

The French Canadian populace in Farmington are expecting that the convention at Waterville will have an effect to elevate their standing in the estimation of the native population, throughout the state.

Messrs. Hobbs & Son of West Farmington, horse rake manufacturers, are having ready sales for all their goods. Such was the demand for these rakes two years ago, they made an extensive addition to the factory, and this year have put 2000 dozen rakes upon the market, and still not enough to fill all their orders. Their business has steadily increased for the last four years. The following items are of interest: To produce the above number of rakes 50,000 of ash lumber was used, 12 cords of hornbean for teeth, A cord will make 25 bushels of teeth. A bushel contains about 1200 teeth, hence 2000 dozen rakes necessitated use of 300 bushels or about 360,000 teeth. They have machinery for turning fork handles and rounds for hay racks, large numbers of which are annually turned out. They are now putting in machinery for the manufacture of excelsior, which will be in operation another fall.

Last Friday night, Mr. F. W. Wright and wife of Wilton, received quite severe injuries from being thrown from a wagon. They were riding from their home toward the village, Mrs. W. holding the reins, when the horse suddenly started, overturned the wagon and threw them out, with violence. Mrs. Wright received severe cuts on the head, and other bruises; Mr. W. was scarcely less injured. It is hoped no permanent injury may result from this accident. The wagon was badly smashed.

He also conveyed to the Reform School at Portland, on Friday last, a boy some 10 or 12 years old belonging in that city, by the name of Roscoe Watson, who was sentenced by Judge Knight of the police court, to that institution during his minority for the crime of stealing money from the library of the South Congregational Sabbath School in Hallowell.

Toledo, Ann Arbor AND Grand Trunk R'y

First Mortgage 6 Per Cent. Forty-Year Gold Bonds.

Total Issue - $1,260,000

Interest payable Jan. 1 and July 1. In New York.

PRINCIPAL DUE JAN. 1, 1921

Issued at rate of $15,000 per Mile.

These Bonds are issued to provide for the completion of the Toledo and Ann Arbor line, to Toledo, Mich., 38 miles further north, to a connection there with the Grand Trunk Railway, and to afford the shortest and easiest intersection line an outlet to Toledo. The extension is now nearly completed, and will be in oil sept. 1. Formerly a line of miles from Toledo to Pontiac, on which these bonds are a first mortgage.

THE EARNINGS.

The gross earnings, expenses and net earnings of the division from Toledo to Ann Arbor, for the last three months were as follows:

On 40 Miles.	Earnings.	Expenses.	Net.
March	$11,453	$5,310	$6,177
April	12,147	5,600	6,547
May	13,600	7,000	6,600

Net earnings for the last three months ... $19,375
The net earnings for the present year would be ... 77,500
Interest on bonds at $15,000 per mile for 40 miles is only ... 60,000
The present net earnings are 30 miles in excess sufficient for the interest charge on the whole issue of $1,260,000 first mortgage bonds, so that with no any increase from the operation of the extension to Pontiac the interest on the bonds is secured. The bonds, however, cover 38 additional miles of line, that will be extremely productive, from the valuable connections secured.

If the earnings upon the whole line be at same rate as upon 40 miles, the net earnings will be $132,000, while the interest charge are only $79,000. But it is believed the earnings will increase in a larger ratio.

THE CONNECTIONS.

Main Railroads centre in Toledo from Indiana and Ohio. The Toledo, Ann Arbor and Grand Trunk Railway runs northerly from Toledo, intersects and connects with nine railroads north of Toledo.

At Milan, 8 miles from Toledo, connection is now made with the Wabash Railroad for Detroit, which route is but 1½ miles longer than the Detroit River line. This line is now used by the Wabash line for a large traffic between Toledo and Detroit.

At South Lyons, 15 miles north of Ann Arbor, connections will be made this month with the Detroit, Lansing and Great Northern Railroad, the great lumber road of Michigan. This connection will afford great traffic to Toledo.

At Wixom, 21 miles north of Ann Arbor connection will be made with the Flint and Pere Marquette road.

Its completion will give the "Ann Arbor" route, the important advantage of a through line for a business that the Grand Trunk, from its shut off from that quarter, will be able to reach over it, via Toledo, from seven lines of Railway, entering there from the South. The Grand Trunk road of Canada has long aimed to reach Toledo.

BOTH GENERAL AND LOCAL TRAFFIC.

The Toledo, Ann Arbor and Grand Trunk Railway traverses one of the most fertile and thickly populated portions of Michigan, and will have a local business second to none in the state.

The Ann Arbor line, by saving distances, will secure a large southeastward traffic, and by its advantages to Toledo, this assured, is large and profitable northwestward traffic, which insures productive hauls both ways, and consequent large net earnings on gross traffic.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

The undersigned are now receiving subscriptions for the Bonds at 100 and accrued interest. Ten per cent of the amount taken will be payable at the time of subscription, subscribers will have the option, July 1, 1881, of paying in full, or in 6 monthly instalments. The right is reserved to advance the price without notice, interest will be allowed on all deposits made on account of subscriptions, at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum. THE RED MASK.
"A Mocking Demon Stalking Abroad, All Danger from it were Defied by a Skillful Physician."
There are for many reasons, few diseases more to be dreaded than Erysipelas, aptly, been termed St. Anthony's Fire disease which so completely disfigures the image of the patient, fairly he so inspired to wear the mocking demon over the human face, most to be dreaded of all the ropes from a bracket, of course, running palm—it often ends suddenly in death. Treatment considered to be blood letting, strong drastic purgatives. The enlightened modern treatment is as Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. If you have taken the concert of total physicians in the land could prescribe. A case in point. Mr. S. B. Grandville, N. Y., writes that he time both afflict Erysipelas this disease and has regained his health by Favorite Remedy. Other cases similar space permits.
